Excerpt: . . . to keep their Places. 95 world, that while they valued its friendship, they neither feared its hostility nor forgot what they owed to their own country-- Blackwoods Edinburgh Magazine for November, 1840. --p. 576. Here is the avowal distinctly made, that had the Tories been in office, the brutalities of the Whigs could not have been committed. We should have escaped the brand of felons stamped on our persons in the Chinese infamy. The ally and friend of Englishmen in Egypt, would have been safe from the attack directed against him in pure and simple animosity to the progress of civilization, and desire to sustain the rule of barbarism and ignorance. These personal disgraces we are coolly told we should have escaped, but for the invention of making the Whig the doer, and the Tory the exulting prompter. For all this, you will see the good...
